Tight Money A 'Disaster'

OTTAWA (CP)—Walter Gordon (L.—Toronto) blasted the government's "tight money" policy today in the Commons, saying it is an "abomination" which is "disastrous" for Canada.

In his maiden speech, the chairman of the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects said tight money is already causing hardship to many thousands of small businesses. It would also mean more unemployment this winter.

Mr. Gordon said a business downturn can be expected this fall or early in 1963. Therefore, this was the "very worst time" to pursue a tight money policy. It was bound to slow the rate of economic growth and "bury on the next recession."

Tight money would bring misery and unhappiness to thousands of Canadians. It accentuated the trend of Canadian companies falling into foreign hands because they had difficulty expanding operations, and often the only way out was to sell out to foreign firms or their Canadian subsidiaries.

EXPRESSES SADNESS

In another maiden speech, David Lewis (NDP—York) said he felt "desperately sad" for Canadians when he listened to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

All the problems which beset the nation had been "drowned in floods of irrelevant banalities and petty political prattle." The "most appalling" thing about the throne speech was not so much its emptiness but its smugness and complacency which were as dangerous as they were unjustified.

Mississippi Game Switched

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—The University of Mississippi today skirted the possibility of trouble at Saturday's homecoming football game with Houston by switching the game site to Jackson.

The announcement came from the university athletic department but assistant U.S. Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach said he believed the decision was made by the U.S. defense department.

Rail Strike Date Set By Trainmen's Union

Decision Against CPR After CN Settlement

OTTAWA (CP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) set a strike date today for Monday, Oct. 29, to back its demands for an eight-per-cent wage increase from the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The brotherhood announced a 98.1 per cent vote in favor of the strike. If the strike occurs it will involve about 6,000 train and yard service employees of the CPR.

The decision follows a settlement between the brotherhood and Canadian National Railway for an eight-per-cent increase over a 31-month contract. Although a majority recommendation of the conciliation board was for a 6.5 per cent increase for a three-year contract.

The brotherhood also announced today that a similar eight-per-cent increase has been granted to about 150 trainmen on the Pacific Great Eastern Railway in British Columbia.

OFFER 6 1/2 PER CENT

The CPR has so far refused to go beyond 6 1/2 per cent in its offer to the brotherhood.

If the railway succeeds in holding the line under eight per cent, it would be the first time since 1939 that wage settlements on the two major railroads have not been of the same order.

The federal conciliation board chairman, Judge John B. Robinson of Haliburton, Ont., said in his Aug. 29 report that it would be almost impossible for the CPR to ignore the BRT's settlement for eight per cent. Senator Arthur Roebuck, union nominee on the board, called for an eight-per-cent increase and added that CPR trainmen should not be expected to get less money than their CN counterparts — and "their employer should not provoke industrial hostilities by insisting that they do so."

R. V. Hicks, CPR nominee on the board said the brotherhood's eight-per-cent increase was won from the CN last June during the election campaign in a "somewhat accommodating political climate" and because of this it should not be recognized by the CPR.

William B. Kelly of Ottawa, brotherhood vice-president, said today the brotherhood is "prepared for continuous negotiations" and is waiting to hear from the CPR.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett is in New York negotiating for money with which to build dams for the Columbia River power project, claims the Victoria Columnist.

The newspaper also says that Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, co-chairman of the British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority, and his technical aides are negotiating with the Bonneville Power Authority for a firm agreement on the price to be paid for B.C.'s downstream power entitlements.

Premier Jean Lesage expressed surprise Wednesday at national Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson's criticism of rising debts in Quebec.

De Gaulle Threatens To Quit Unless . . .

PARIS (AP)—President de Gaulle coolly threatened today to quit unless France approves his proposal to elect future presidents by popular vote.

The proposal will be submitted to a national referendum Oct. 23.

De Gaulle spoke in a radio-television address just two hours before the National Assembly met in a crisis atmosphere to debate a motion of censure against the government. In effect, he was appealing to the people over the head of the government to follow his leadership and disregard the opposition in parliament.

First speaker in parliament was wartime premier Paul Reynaud, who called the presidential proposal "extravagant and dangerous." Gaullist deputies constantly heckled him from the floor.

The Socialist party leader, former premier Guy Mollet, was the second speaker and he also opposed de Gaulle.

At least 28 legislators had asked to speak on the motion. The president said he needed "yes" votes in the referendum to give him strength for his future activities.

ELECTIONS LIKELY

It was the first of two nationwide de Gaulle broadcasts preceding the vote in Parliament. In the first major political crisis of the Fifth Republic. Dissolution of the assembly and elections next month appeared likely.

De Gaulle told the French people: "If it is your responses which will tell me Oct. 28 if I can and if I must carry on my task in the service of France."

He avoided any direct clash with parliament. But this threat of resigning obviously was calculated to make the deputies think twice before heading into a showdown battle with him.

Members of parliament are increased that de Gaulle is using a referendum to revise the constitution. They say—and almost all the eminent legal experts in France agree—that the constitution can be amended only by parliament.

JFK Orders; 'End Strike'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today ordered the U.S. government to take court action to stop the strike of American longshoremen that has tied up shipping in Atlantic and Gulf coast ports.

Kennedy acted after receiving a report from the three-man board he appointed Monday to investigate the walkout. Naming of such a board is the first step under the Taft-Hartley law to halt major industrial work stoppages.

Kennedy's action cleared the way for the government to seek an end to the strike for an 80-day cooling-off period.

U.K. Labor Backs Pay Restraint

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—Leaders of the Labor party today backed an income restraint policy in Britain provided it applied to profits as well as wages.

Ports Shut To Cuba Carriers

WASHINGTON (CP)—The United States has advised its NATO allies and Latin American countries that it plans to close U.S. ports to all shipping of countries which have any vessels engaged in carrying arms to Cuba, it was learned today.

The U.S. also would deny U.S. government cargo to foreign-flag ships of any owner whose vessels are used in trade between Cuba and the Sino-Soviet bloc.

More Space Shots Now On U.S. Menu

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Buttressed by Walter M. Schirra Jr.'s space success, the United States expects:

1. To send at least one—maybe more—one-day missions up nearly next year.
2. To send two men into orbit in a maneuverable spacecraft by late next year.
3. To beat the Soviet Union to the moon in this decade, by these careful, sometimes piddling steps into space.

All of this was reaffirmed on the eve of the fifth anniversary of the Soviet Union's pioneering space triumph—a 184-pound globe called Sputnik 1, hurled into space in 1957.

Walter C. Williams, project manager of the Mercury program, told reporters Wednesday the United States expects to send a Project Mercury spacecraft on a 24-hour, 17-orbit flight early in 1963. One of these special 24-hour spacecraft now is being tested in the dust-free white room in hangar 5 where Schirra spent the night before his space adventure.

Big Debt's Date 'Not Reached Yet'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has not yet reached the due date on the $300,000,000 it borrowed in June from the International Monetary Fund, Finance Minister Nowlan said Wednesday.

Replying in the Commons to Social Credit Leader Thompson, Mr. Nowlan did not say when the loan falls due.

US, Latin America Agree 'Build Up In Cuba A Threat'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign ministers of the United States and its 19 Latin American allies were unanimously agreed today that the massing of Soviet arms in Cuba threatens the security of the Western Hemisphere.

"The adoption of special measures, both individual and collective," are required to meet the growing danger, they said in a statement released after two days of consultation at the state department.

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and Russia will hold consultations next month in Moscow at which the future of their trade treaty will be discussed, Trade Minister Hees said today.

Radio-Enraged Gunman Slays 4 In LA Hotel

Peace Treaty Threat By Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia Wednesday night reiterated the Soviet Union will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany if the West refuses an agreement on Berlin.

The threat was made in an article by Izvestia commentator N. Polyanov who denounced U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara for saying nuclear weapons would be used, if necessary, to defend West Berlin.

"The Pentagon's fits of fury have no effect on the Soviet Union. It stands firmly on solving the question of a German peace settlement on the basis of agreement with the West."

"But there is a limit to any patience. If the United States, instead of talking reasonably, proceeds with sabre rattling, the Western capitals will one fine day hear that the German peace treaty has been concluded without them."

Speaker Challenged In House

OTTAWA (CP)—The judgment of the new Commons speaker Murel Lambert, was strongly challenged today by Martin (L.—Essex East) who accused him of disfiguring "the customs of this House." Civil Servants Make Protest On Favoritism

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Civil Service Association of Canada has advised Prime Minister Diefenbaker that it objects strongly to any political consideration entering into appointment to fill a senior civil service post.

The objection was registered here Wednesday night at the biennial convention of the 32,500-member CSAC, which was told that newspaper speculation has arisen that a candidate defeated in the June federal election might be appointed to the Civil Service Commission.

An extraordinary resolution passed unanimously and without debate said such an appointment would be a "direct negation" of the system of appointing federal government employees on the basis of individual merit.

VOTE AGAINST C.I.C.

Delegates voted against affiliation of the CSAC with the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress, a decision which must stand at least until the next CSAC convention two years hence.

The question is to be kept under study, however, by the CSAC national council.

Gov't Planning Inaction Prompts Speculation

One of the great mysteries of the past two or three years has been the failure of Victoria to appoint a local planning board or an area of Valley planning board.

There once was a board called "Regional Planning Board Number 1." It was set up by the provincial government to control and guide development in the unorganized area surrounding Kelowna. The board was composed of representatives of various rural areas and the city had representation on it, in order that developments within the city and the unorganized area could be co-ordinated.

This scheme seemed to work well. It worked well enough indeed to prompt the government to appoint other such boards in other areas of the province. But then, suddenly and without warning, Kelowna discovered the board had been abolished.

Since that time there has been no planning in the rural areas and just about no control.

Over a period of months letters and telegrams went from Kelowna to Victoria but no action has resulted. Approaches made on the basis of a Valley planning board were received with the same coolness.

The government's position is difficult to understand. It has neither refused to consider a planning board nor has it taken any action to implement the plan. Why it should shadow box and procrastinate is a mystery.

There is, of course, something behind it all. Just what we would not hazard a guess, but we are being driven to the conclusion that the basic reason is politics, that some of the government's friends are quietly opposing any planning board, any controls, for fear it might interfere with their own plans.

If this suspicion is correct, these individuals have the ear of the government more than have the municipalities.

Easterners About Sons

Reading about the march of the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors towards the special prison near Agassiz, puzzled Easterners have been wondering how these people could leave their homes, their jobs, their farms and spend days, perhaps weeks, along roads. Well, it seems that the Sons, unlike the orthodox Doukhobors, are a pretty shiftless lot.

The Vancouver Sun reports that 1,400 of the 1,700 Sons of Freedom in British Columbia accept government welfare payments each month. These are the people who believe that God and man are in constant communication, and therefore there is no need for governments, which simply get in the way of union between God and man. They refuse to recognize government documents and flout government laws, which are man-made. But they do not hesitate to sign for the welfare payments on government documents, to apply for and use government car registrations and driving licences, and even to ask for government transportation on their "protest" marches.

Ontario municipalities are debating the proposition that no person who accepts government welfare payments should refuse to accept work when it is offered to him. The proposition has enough pros and cons to warrant careful and thoughtful discussion. But if there ever was a case where the principle of "no work, no pay" should be rigidly applied, it is that of the Sons of Freedom.

These people have been a costly and dangerous nuisance, with their bombings, burnings and protests, ever since they settled in British Columbia. The government of that province would be justified in telling the Sons that they must work for their money—work on government projects that would isolate them from the rest of British Columbia community. Such action would at least ensure that their violent acts hurt no one but themselves. —(Oshawa Times)

Problem Of "Junk" Mail

It is but an odd day indeed that the postman does not deposit some sort of advertising material through the front door of hundreds of households.

We are urged to buy everything from new type of detergent to new stereo records; from rose bushes to books of the month. And two or three times per month there arrives the flyer from the grocery store, the hardware store or some of the departmental stores. This is what is known as "direct mail" advertising.

Recipients of this so-called "direct mail" advertising are getting fed up. There seems to be increased public resistance to advertising sent through the mails on the long chance of getting an order from a potential recipient who may have moved without leaving an address or may not be interested if still there or may even be dead.

According to recent reports, since last spring the results from direct mailing have fallen off as much as 50 per cent in some cases.

Furthermore, in the U.S.A., there has been a tremendous increase in the number of people who put weights in the return envelopes and mail them back, or otherwise try to harass the direct mailers.

This public resistance to what is termed "junk mail" pushed into their letter boxes is resulting in a change in policy. It is believed that better results will be obtained by dropping the direct mail method and spending the money in newspaper and magazine advertising.

While this report is from the United States it applies to some degree in Canada. A year or so ago there was controversy over the subject of "junk mail" burdening the postal services and letter carriers, cluttering up households and creating a nuisance. Presumably it is not uncommon for people to simply seal a stamped return envelope and mail it back. This means revenue to the post office department but it is disturbing to those engaged in direct mail advertising.

There is one point that cannot be disputed — the letter carrier's sack would be lightened considerably were he relieved of delivering advertising material that is classified under the name direct mailing. — (Nanaimo Daily Free Press)

DON'T ANYBODY SNEEZE

Plight Of Poor In Brazil Core Of October Election

RECIFE, Brazil (AP)—The plight of the poor in northeastern Brazil is an important factor in the upcoming October elections.

A typical answer to a political question put to a resident of the Macambos, the richest wood and palm-thatched huts where the destitute live in Recife's filthy, laden suburbia is: "I mind my own business."

Death, poverty and promiscuity are as much taken for granted as day and night in the world of Macambos, replete mostly by the chronically jobless or partly employed. It is difficult to instill ambition or revolutionary zeal in this urban realm.

But there is another and larger set of the underprivileged among the some 20,000,000 persons who inhabit the northeast. These are the peasants in whom, because of ancestry, temperament and environment, there is an acute awareness of status and inequality. Years of fighting hostile elements—poor soil, uneven climate and feudal landowners—have made them restless, inquisitive and highly receptive to reforms.

NEW AGITATION
A dramatic struggle for the minds of these millions is being waged in preparation for the October elections.

There has been increased agitation and violence in a region where just the ordinary function of living is a daily crisis.

The northeast is an eight-state area where 17,000,000 persons are trying to live on arable land that can support only 12,000,000. There are 4,000,000 more in urban areas.

Its 475,000 square miles, shaped like an inverted pear on Brazil's northeast corner, would blanket much of the United States east of the Mississippi.

Droughts lasting as long as five years have cut into the food supply and the shortage became acute as the population increased. This resulted in increased food shipments from the south. Prices soared. Inflation put such staples as rice and beans out of reach of many.

Competent foreign and national agronomists agree the only ultimate solution is mass migration to the neighboring reaches of the Amazon.

This would entail expropriation of much privately owned land. Brazilian law requires quick cash indemnity for expropriation, a drain the undernourished national treasury is not considered capable of standing.

With the election tempo increasing, left-wing radicals and Communists have stepped up their activities. The Communist are well represented in student groups, trade unions, some newspaper editorial staffs and in the leadership of some of the peasant leagues.

But they are running into formidable Roman Catholic opposition, and still lack a strong national rallying symbol.

After sounding warnings last spring about a possible Communist victory in the October voting, the Catholic Church moved its war on the extremists from the pulpit to the fields.

Besides its usual spiritual tasks, the church is distributing food and raising the peasant league memberships by creation of peasant unions.

The Catholic church has received support from others. Food distributed to an average of 1,000 persons a month in one parish has been provided by U.S. Catholic and other charitable organizations. But little help is coming from the big landowners.

Brazilians will elect a new chamber of deputies and two-thirds of the Senate in October voting, considered to be the most important in years.

It is believed inevitable that the populous northeast, with roughly a third of Brazil's population, will send reform-minded members to the next Congress.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH A Cough And Worry

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother, 55, has had a terrible, persistent cough for 20 years.

She refuses to do anything about it although it leaves her exhausted after every spell.

She once went to a doctor who prescribed some pills which stopped the cough, but she never bothered to renew the prescription. Is there something you could write which might scare her enough so she would go to the doctor again? She always quotes the advice you give to others.—D.O.

Maybe there's a better way than to scare her. But if she reads today's column, I hope she considers the fact that she is scaring her son by not getting rid of that cough.

Perhaps this is a curious quirk of human nature, but it happens over and over again—she doesn't go because she's already too scared.

Afraid of what? Afraid, for some reason, that she may be told she has a dangerous disease? Years ago, people used to dread being told that they had tuberculosis. They still do—and put off finding out until cure becomes difficult or impossible.

Today they know that there are many kinds of lung disease besides TB, but the old dread of hearing the truth still lingers.

That could be the reason your mother won't go to the doctor again, although if she thought about it, she would realize that if she had some such perilous disease, it would have made itself inescapably known in 20 years.

Therefore let's suspect that the cough is from some chronic condition or irritation and that, on the evidence, it is something that can be cured by medication.

Quite aside from her own comfort and your peace of mind, there are very good reasons for getting rid of the cough. For one, the often-repeated violent pressure of coughing can stretch the lung tissues until they lose their elasticity. Then you have a condition known as emphysema which results in chronic shortness of breath. That alone is a good reason for taking whatever steps are necessary to get rid of a cough. Like going to the doctor for another prescription!

Dear Dr. Molner: I read about 25 years ago about a blind baby having pig's eyes transplanted, but they would have to wait till the baby could talk to tell whether it could see. Do you know about the case? I'm interested because my niece is losing here eyesight and I said I would ask you.—MRS. A. J.

That was all hopeful invagination, because eyes cannot be transplanted not even human eyes. The only transplanting yet possible is of the cornea, the window or outer surface of the eyeball. This, however, has restored sight to a few lucky people who had become blind as a result of clouded corneas.

Dear Dr. Molner: My mother forbids me to shave my legs, and now since this new hair remover is on the market I wonder if you can tell me if it is safe to use.—C.P.

I don't know which "new hair remover" you mean, but I don't know of any that are harmful. I don't know why your mother forbids shaving, unless she believes the old notion that shaving makes the hair grow heavier. It is a fiction dear to the hearts of little boys who want to grow whiskers, and feared by females of all ages who don't want to. But shaving has no effect on hair growth, any more than cutting the fingernails makes them grow bigger. Some cream hair removers can cause skin irritation, therefore use cautiously and stop if irritation occurs.

Springy Step For Aussies

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—Pedestrians should find the going easier with an invention that puts spring into every stride.

It is a show or boot heel that looks like a normal leather heel but really is of rubber with steel springs built into it.

The effect is a heel that offers more resistance than rubber alone, absorbs the first impact of the thump of a man's shoe on the sidewalk surface and triggers off a "kick" to the next step.

As soon as the device, invented by Grant McDonough, of Sydney's harbor-side sporting suburb of Manly, became known to medical and surgical circles of Sydney Hospital, all new arrivals agreed that the "springlift" heel could be of great value to sufferers from foot injuries or ailments and possibly to arthritic patients.

Several dozen pairs of heels were given to an organization specializing in help for amputees and otherwise crippled people. Days after the first pair had been put into circulation a request came for a repeat supply.

McDonough says he can see that with design and spring tension modifications the heel can serve the needs of the ailing as readily as those of the well and fit.

H.I.P. POSTMEN
He hopes, however, that he'll be able to market the heel for general use. Greatest benefit from the heel is expected to be derived by men who must walk in their work postmen, collectors, meter readers, canvassers, salesmen and the like.

There's Move On To Keep Him Out

WEYMOUTH, Dorsetshire — Billy Butlin, Canadian veteran of the first world war, who started the business life as a jester toy with the T. Eaton Company in Toronto and is now a multimillionaire holiday camp operator, has a battle on his hands.

Butlin owns a growing chain of holiday camps dotted around the coastline of the British Isles. But he has chosen to build a new holiday camp in the form of new sites on which to establish his fabulous camps which accommodate from 8,000 to 10,000 people each during the summer holiday period.

Mr. Butlin decided that a site on the south coast at Looe, near Weymouth, would be ideal for the establishment of a new camp. He was all ready to make the very substantial investment for the site, amenities, chalets, swimming pools, dance halls and other amenities which are enjoyed by the millions of people who have become regular Butlin patrons.

UNEXPECTED SNAG

His plans, however, met with an unexpected snag when residents of Weymouth decided they did not want a Butlin holiday camp in such close proximity, and organized to fight it.

The objectors say that "Butlinization" of Weymouth would mean a depreciation in property values, later would be attracted away from the local holiday resort industry, rates might go up to pay for additional services and amenities needed by the influx of campers, beaches would be overcrowded and the natural scenic beauty would be spoiled.

It is believed inevitable that the populous northeast, with roughly a third of Brazil's population, will send reform-minded members to the next Congress.

With the election tempo increasing, left-wing radicals and Communists have stepped up their activities. The Communist are well represented in student groups, trade unions, some newspaper editorial staffs and in the leadership of some of the peasant leagues.

But they are running into formidable Roman Catholic opposition, and still lack a strong national rallying symbol.

After sounding warnings last spring about a possible Communist victory in the October voting, the Catholic Church moved its war on the extremists from the pulpit to the fields.

Besides its usual spiritual tasks, the church is distributing food and raising the peasant league memberships by creation of peasant unions.

The Catholic church has received support from others. Food distributed to an average of 1,000 persons a month in one parish has been provided by U.S. Catholic and other charitable organizations. But little help is coming from the big landowners.

Brazilians will elect a new chamber of deputies and two-thirds of the Senate in October voting, considered to be the most important in years.

Having started Butlin's holiday camps and seen how they are operated, I have a strong feeling that none of these things are at all likely to happen should a camp be located at Looe, but the objectors in Weymouth have strong feelings along these lines.

"KEEP BUTLIN OUT"

A Weymouth local estate agent, Frank Thomas, is leading the drive to organize a petition to the government, and has advertised the petition in local newspapers. Already he claims, he has been flooded with telephone calls of support, and many people have offered to help in circulating "Keep Butlin Out" petition forms.

Mr. Thomas has never visited a Butlin camp, but he says: "I have nothing against Mr. Butlin's camps as such, and indeed, I have heard many good reports about them. But I feel that such a camp could offer nothing to Weymouth. Property in the Looe area would be definitely devalued in value."

"There is no shyness about our objection," said Mr. Thomas. "I and the other objectors feel that Weymouth offers the type of holiday which is becoming increasingly difficult to find in Britain—its traditional rural attractions and amenities."

No reply is forthcoming at the moment of Mr. Butlin's representatives of the county, and a spokesman at his London office had no comment to make on the Looe situation or plans. The outline proposals which have been put forward by the Butlin organization, however, call for a luxury camp to accommodate 8,000 people, and to be ready for operation in the summer of 1964.

Before making any decision, members of the Weymouth town council will pay a visit of inspection to the Butlin camp at Minehead to see for themselves whether the objections raised are justified.

Many Changes Seen In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP)—People revisiting this capital after a few years away find it changed beyond belief. Its growth has been among the fastest in the world.

The citizens who make Mexico City one of the world's 10 largest cities find it bewildering, too.

Back in 1910, just before the popular upsurge which overthrew Porfirio Diaz, Mexico City covered only eight square miles. Now it sprawls over 115.

Population has grown 10-fold since then, from 470,000 to nearly 5,000,000.

The population has soared 12 per cent annually during the last 10 years.

The metropolis employs 30 per cent of the nation's total labor force although only 17 per cent of the national population lives here.

PLEASANT CLIMATE
Many factors have contributed to this dramatic development.

The city's location in the centre of a fertile plateau 7,500 feet high, surrounded by snow-capped volcanoes and mountains, gives it a pleasant year-round climate.

Mexico City has always been the centre of everything Mexican — schools, trade, business opportunities, politics, fashions, entertainment.

Mexico City has grown at such a pace that demands for services, transportation, public works, modernization, have posed unending problems.

Mexico's traditional problem has been that of sewage disposal. Built on an old lakebed, the city sinks a little every year. As a result, drainage pipes had a tendency to break, particularly during the July-October rainy season. Often, large sections flooded.

The entire drainage network now is changed, with pumping stations throughout the city. Old, smelly and unsanitary markets have been torn down, new ones built.

ANN LANDERS

Jealousy Is Destructive

Dear Ann Landers: Please, please help me. I am a jealous and possessive woman and I hate myself for it.

Whenever my husband is a few minutes late from work I put him through the third degree. I make him account for every second of his time and naturally he resents it. Who wouldn't? I'm constantly making phone calls to make sure he's where he said he'd be.

He is a wonderful person and a perfect husband. I have no reason to distrust him. I know I'm dead wrong. If I don't get control of myself soon I'm going to lose a terrific man. Am I crazy? Can you help me?

—IN DESPAIR.

Dear In Despair: You have the battle two-thirds won. First, you recognize your problem and accept responsibility for your actions. Second, you are fully aware that jealousy is corrosive and destructive and you do not underestimate the dangers.

Now, get professional help. You must conquer your feelings of inadequacy and get off the attack.

Dear Ann Landers: You've had many letters in your column about borrowing, but since we moved to this city we've encountered a breed of borrowers unmatched anywhere.

My husband is a bug on garage and garden tools. Everyone who knows him is aware that he has the finest assortment in town. Max is big-hearted and enjoys lending things. But people take advantage of him.

It's reached the point where our neighbors don't even come to the door and ask if they can use this or that. They just walk in and take whatever they want. If my Max needs a tool and it's missing he doesn't know where to look for it.

When we leave town for a few days it's not uncommon to find the garage window pried open because someone decided to help himself. What can be done about this? — Q.T.

Dear Q.T.: You can call it "borrowing" if you wish, but prying open windows and taking tools without the knowledge of the owner is called "stealing" where I come from.

If Max wants to put an end to this nonsense he can put bars on the garage windows and learn to say no to anyone who fails to return a tool within 24 hours.

Pastels By Irvine Adams Now Hanging In Library

It is hardly necessary to mention that Irvine Adams is internationally known as an artist. He has exhibited in London, Paris and many other cities.

There are many opinions about art in these days. There is the school who says you can't paint what you see, so you must paint what you feel about the subject. In other words, express yourself through the scene. And there are also those who think colored photography takes care of the opposite opinion and gives you all you want of true to life representation of the subject in hand.

Irvine Adams has been given the rare gift of combining in one work what he sees and what he feels. Each of his pictures shows excellent draughtsmanship and composition together with the deep feeling that the landscape gives something indescribable and breathtaking.

Some of his winter scenes are modern in one's first thought, but this is not the case the first on the high mountains show winter-dressed shapes covered with the deep snow that one finds depicted by Mr. Adams.

Many of the pictures hanging in the library have been loaned by the owners and there are

WANTS TO GO TO THE MOON

Looks Like Average Joe But Maybe Famous Name

HOUSTON (CP) — He's 32½, attended the University of Texas, Frederick, 11, and Edwin, 9, years old, weighs 161 2-3 pounds, 5'10", and stands five feet, 9½", inches tall.

He has a college education, a good job, a wife, and offspring. His may be one of the most famous names in history because he wants to go to the moon, and there's a good chance he'll get there.

You can read his name right now: Neil A. Armstrong; James A. Lovell; James A. McDivitt; Elott M. See; Thomas P. Stafford; Charles Conrad Jr.; Frank Borman; John W. Young; Edward H. White.

There are the nine men chosen by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration as astronauts for Project Apollo, the U.S. endeavor to be first to the moon.

The composite picture of the new astronauts also shows that they have logged an average of 2,800 hours' flight time. Four are from the U.S. Air Force and three from the navy. The other two are civilians.

Why did they want to become astronauts?

LIKES CHALLENGE
Armstrong, 32, said the challenge of the unknown was his primary motivation.

Borman, 34, said: "I want to be on the first team, and as far as I am concerned, this program (the Apollo project) will be the first team as far as space progress goes. I am particularly interested in the flight phase of the program."

Stafford, 32, said: "I feel it is a real privilege to be a representative of 180 million Americans in this program. I am particularly interested in the flight segment."

Young, 32, said: "I feel this is a real opportunity to be able to make a significant contribution to the nation, and possibly to all mankind."

Dr. Robert H. Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre here, said there were these basic qualifications for the final selection of the nine:

Experience as a jet test pilot; Experimental flight test status; Possession of a degree in physical or biological sciences or engineering; U.S. citizenship; age less than 35 at the time of selection and height six feet or less.

Big Bid to Speed Boom For Canadian Tourism

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Tourist Association today announced Wednesday that it is creating a new look for the tourism industry. More than 200 delegates at the 30th annual meeting heard proposals aimed at creating a new look for the tourism industry, which is expected to earn more than $500,000,000 for the first time this year.

Wilfred Sanders, a Toronto advertising executive, said more research is needed to fill in "vital blank spots" about the industry and act as a guidepost to the future.

Mr. Sanders, general manager of the J. Walter Thompson company, said much more is known about agriculture and mining and other lesser industries.

Victoria newspaper publisher Stuart Keate, president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, said more front-line Canadian business executives should join the tour industry's growing importance.

Government officials have already started to re-examine the industry and help it along.

FLEW 'HOMELY VIRTUES'
Mr. Keate suggested Canada become the first nation in the world to advertise its virtues of air and water and the "homely virtues" of its people.

The world should be told that Canada is the home of courtesy and the first nation in the world to advertise its virtues of air and water and the "homely virtues" of its people.

Daisy Aims At Florida
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Daisy, a fluffy mass of swirling winds, swelled to hurricane force overnight and aimed toward the Florida peninsula.

Forecasters said the storm checked churning winds of up to 75 miles an hour near the center. Gales reached out 250 miles to the east and north and 50 miles to the southwest of center, churning up seas angry enough to keep small craft in port as far away as the Bahamas.

Daisy's centre was located approximately 775 miles east of Miami. The storm was moving west-northwest at about eight or nine miles an hour.

Anti-Test Group Seeks U.S. Hearing

WASHINGTON (CP) — A group seeking a federal injunction against atmospheric nuclear tests filed a reply Wednesday to a U.S. government motion that their suit be dismissed.

The district file — 183 persons from 12 countries including Nobel Prize-winning chemist Dr. Linus C. Pauling — asked for an early hearing of their suit, filed June 21 in U.S. district court here.

No date has been set for the hearing.

The government, in a reply filed Sept. 17, asked dismissal of the suit on grounds the plaintiffs lacked stature before the court and also failed to present a controversy worthy of the court's attention.

In their counter-charge, the plaintiffs disputed these arguments.

A similar suit was filed by the same 183 persons in Moscow, seeking to prevent further Russian atmospheric nuclear tests. There has been no word as to the progress of that suit.

Hollywood Sets Sights At This Year's Oscars

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Oscar race for 1962 is now taking shape and one thing seems certain: Hollywood's highest honor will be brought back to more front-line Canadian business executives should join the tour industry's growing importance.

Victoria newspaper publisher Stuart Keate, president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, said more front-line Canadian business executives should join the tour industry's growing importance.

Government officials have already started to re-examine the industry and help it along.

FLEW 'HOMELY VIRTUES'
Mr. Keate suggested Canada become the first nation in the world to advertise its virtues of air and water and the "homely virtues" of its people.

The world should be told that Canada is the home of courtesy and the first nation in the world to advertise its virtues of air and water and the "homely virtues" of its people.

HOWARD FORCED AT SECOND

Big Frank Howard of the Dodgers is forced out at second in the second inning of Tuesday's game in Los Angeles, as starting Joe Pagan of the San Francisco Giants throws to first on an attempt for double play. Howard was forced when catcher John Horbawa hit the ball to second baseman Chuck Heller.

Giants Walk Into Series On Ninth Inning Thriller

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — San Francisco Giants in a thrilling ninth inning comeback Wednesday night delivered up by the Dodgers' Stan Williams with the 6-4 in the final playoff game to bases loaded and an error by rookie Larry Burdett. The Giants came from behind with four runs in the ninth to over-three more Wednesday to bring Davenport. An insurance run scored when Dodger rookie Larry Burdett muffed Jose Pagan's easy grounder.

Dark was taking no chances with youngsters after his Giants took the lead. He summoned the veteran Billy Pierce from the bullpen and the 35-year-old left-hander sealed the Dodgers' doom in one-two-three fashion in the last of the ninth.

The Giants go against New York Yankees today in the World Series opener at San Francisco.

It was a comeback reminiscent of the famous "miracle finish" of 1951, when the Giants of New York defeated the Dodgers

San Francisco's first major league pennant.

Juan Marichal and Don Larsen had worked the first eight innings, but trailed chiefly because of Davis and Willis.

Pinch hitter Matty Alou opened the incredible ninth with a single. After Harvey Kuenn hit into a force play, Dodger reliever Ed Roebuck walked both Willie McCovey and Felipe Alou, loading the bases. Willie Mays' line single off Roebuck's glove scored one run and Orlando Cepeda's sacrifice fly off Stan Williams, who had relieved Roebuck, tied the score.

Then the Giants walked to the pennant.

BILLY PIERCE acts 'em down

It seemed the Giants had been beaten by Tommy Davis' two-run home and a sensational base-stealing display by first baseman Willie Mays who tagged out four hits, but they bounced back with the help of a sudden wild streak by Dodger relief hurler Ed Roebuck, the ultimate loser.

In the catastrophic ninth the Dodgers watched some $10,000 in series money for each player go out the window while the Giants uncorked the champagne.

After using eight pitchers in Tuesday's 8-7 loss, Giants' manager Al Dark went through

Former Packer Takes Over As Bucks Coach

Kelowna Buckaroos of the Okanagan Junior 'A' Hockey League have a new coach. Team manager Bob Gordano said today Don Culley would coach the club for the coming season.

A Kelowna resident for over the past 10 years, Culley brings to the coaching field a wealth of hockey experience, both in professional and the amateur ranks.

His junior career began with the Edmonton juniors of the Saskatchewan junior league. In professional company the new Bucks' coach saw action with New Haven of the American Hockey League and Fort Worth in the United States Hockey League. In 1949 Culley received his amateur card and stepped into the powerful Western Canadian Senior League seeing action with Vancouver Canucks, Edmonton Flyers and Calgary Stampede. The 1951-1952 season was a move to the Okanagan where the slick play making centerman signed with the Penitents Vets, who that season won their way to the Allan Cup finals. The following year saw Culley with the Kelowna Packers where he completed his hockey career as a player. In the 1953-54 season with Kelowna, Culley was one of the top scorers in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League amassing a total of 80 points.

Kelowna Buckaroos, slated to play their home opener on Friday October 19th, will move into the Kelowna Arena for training camp sessions within the next ten days.

Dark And Alston Have Answers For Critics

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The next batter, Jose Pagan, has been hot recently at bat, and even his pitcher, Juan Marichal, has won games for him this year with his hitting. As it developed, Pagan bounced to Maury Wills, who threw to the plate forcing Cepeda, and Marichal hit into a double play.

San Francisco Giants beat Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 on a bases loaded walk and an error—just by way of dramatic contrast with 1951 when the Giants beat the Dodgers in a similar playoff with Bobby Thomson's home run—and the sideline managers immediately took over.

Here are their targets:

1. Why didn't the Giants try to bunt in the sixth with the bases loaded and no one out and the score only 2-1 in their favor?

2. Why did manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers put in defensive players in the seventh after taking only a narrow 3-2 lead, thereby removing veteran Duke Snider from the game. Snider had already hit a double and single and scored twice.

3. Why in the fatal ninth, with the score tied at 4-4 and first base open, did Alston have Ed Bailey intentionally walk a lead?

Obviously this was to set up a play at every base, with two out, but it misfired, as Jim Davenport worked Stan Williams for a walk forcing in the winning run.

4. Why was relief pitcher Ed Roebuck left in so long for the Dodgers in the ninth when this was his 64th game of the year and he was obviously tired?

Taken in order, here are some of the answers:

1. Manager Al Dark said his

Yanks Favored 17-10 To Take 59th Series

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 59th World Series opens at Candlestick Park today in a battle of left-handers between New York's Whitey Ford and San Francisco's Billy O'Dell.

San Francisco's joyous citizens appear unimpressed of odds which make the Yankees 7-5 favorites to win the opener and 17-10 choice to win the series.

All that mattered was that the Giants had whipped archrival Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 Wednesday in the final playoff game and brought this city its first National League championship.

One reason the Yankees are such prohibitive favorites is their long tradition of series supremacy. The Yankees have won 19 of 26 fall classics—including four of six from the Giants, who haven't beaten them since 1922.

Another reason is the Yankees are well rested after having clinched the American League pennant Sept. 25. The Giants had a hard pull, needing three playoff games to win the National League pennant after trailing the Dodgers since July 8.

Manager Alvin Dark of the Giants did not appear worried over the Yankees' physical and statistical edge.

PLANS NO CHANGES "The Yankees' rest doesn't make too much of a difference, I don't think," Dark said. "I'm more concerned about my pitching staff. I would have liked to have my starting pitchers to have had more rest."

Dark said he plans to use the same line-up that defeated the Dodgers Wednesday.

Union Oil Takes Over Another Calgary Firm

CALGARY (C.P.)—Union Oil Company of Canada Ltd. has acquired all the shares of Williamson Oil and Gas Ltd. Both companies have their Canadian head offices here.

No purchase price was disclosed.

In addition, Union acquired the interests of various Williamson partners in producing properties in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

The acquisition will increase the daily production of Union by about 1,500 barrels a day. Union will absorb about six of the field staff members of Williamson.

A spokesman for Ashland Oil and Refining Company today confirmed that Ashland has acquired the interests of various Williamson partners in producing properties in Alberta and Saskatchewan.

FIRST POOLS BID NETS $105,000

LONDON (Reuters)—Mrs. Elizabeth Lowton, 30-year-old mother from a coconut village in British Guiana, has won about $35,000 ($105,000) in a British soccer sweepstake at her first attempt. It was announced today.

She left her three young sons in Georgetown, British Guiana, last September to join her husband Emmanuel in a one-room apartment in London and did not expect to see them for five years while she saved for their fares.

Last week she staked five shillings (10 cents) on a pool coupon, a neighbor checked it and excitedly told her "your boys are just around the corner."

Canada Seeks Arabia Trade

CAIRO (Reuters)—A nine-member Canadian trade mission has left here for Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, after a two-day visit to Egypt to discuss the prospects of increasing trade between the two countries.

Mission head Harold Blakey, president of Crane Canada Limited of Montreal, said Egypt must obtain hard currency to buy Canadian products and "we realize we face severe competition in long-term credits being extended by some of our competitors."

Blakey said it is possible an Egyptian trade mission will visit Canada to study the Canadian market.

DIPLOMAT DIES

PARIS (AP)—Hans Nordling, a former Swedish consul-general in Paris who played a key role in preventing a full-scale battle in Paris in 1944, died today following a heart attack. He was 80. In 1944, when the Allied forces were approaching the capital, Nordling negotiated the surrender of the city's German garrison under Gen. Von Choltitz and prevented a battle within the city.

The bidding:

South West North East
1♣ Pass 1♦ Pass
2NT Pass 3NT

Opening lead—three of hearts. Cards tell a story. The trick is to read the story and then take proper measures to capitalize on what is learned.

Look at this hand, for example. North responded to the opening bid with a diamond—a bit irregular, perhaps, with a three-card suit, but North didn't relish the idea of responding with a notrump or two clubs.

South by-passed the opportunity to show his hearts, jumping to two notrump instead. North raised to three.

West led a heart and South took the ten with the queen. Declarer played the king of clubs, which was allowed to hold, and another club, which East took with the ace. West discarded a low spade on the club.

East thereupon played the king of diamonds! This good shot found a vulnerable spot in declarer's armor. South ducked the king, and also the ten, but was then forced to win the continuation with the ace.

After cashing two club tricks, he led the jack of spades and finessed. West took the king, returned a diamond, and South went down two. He had to pay off to the line defense.

If East had made the more normal return of a heart instead of a diamond, or had led a low diamond instead of the king, declarer would have scored nine tricks with ease.

The three of hearts told the story. It marked West with a four-card heart suit, since he had presumably led his fourth-best heart.

East could also reasonably assume that West did not have five spades, because in that case he would have led a spade originally in preference to a heart. It followed, therefore, that West could have at most four spades.

East was thus able to conclude that West had four diamonds, since nine of West's cards in three suits were accounted for. This, in turn, meant that South had only one diamond. East played the king to guard against the possibility that South's singleton was the queen.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Unusually fine Neptune and Mercury influences make this day a boon to creative workers of all types since inspiration reaches a new high and stimulates talents to an unusual degree. During the P.M. business and career goals are encouraged as the Moon enters Capricorn.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope holds promise of a most satisfactory year. Emphasis will be placed upon occupational advancement and financial gain during late November, late December and mid-1963 but, in the interim, it would pay you to consolidate all gains, since the stars will not be so propitious along these lines. Be especially careful in money matters this month and in February, when carelessness or over-expansion could offset advances.

Social, domestic and sentimental relationships should prove generally harmonious—if you do your part to keep them so. This will be especially important late this month and early in November when tactlessness could invite difficulties.

ROMANCE INDICATED

Romance will be governed by unusually generous aspects during the next nine months and, if you are single, marriage is a distinct possibility by mid-1963.

July and August will be excellent for travel and the first six months of 1963 should prove highly inspirational to those with creative abilities—and that means most of you talented Librans!

A child born on this day will be markedly intuitive and artistically inclined.

Halt Drift to Socialism Demands Socred's Whip

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian drift toward socialism, abetted by some Crown corporations and particularly the CBC, must be halted, Social Credit whip Guy Macdonald told the Commons Wednesday.

Canada has reached a limit in welfare payments "beyond which it is not safe or wise for us to proceed," said J. Chester MacRae (PC—York-Simcoe), congratulating the government on ousting "handouts" from the throne speech.

Trade Minister Hees said the economy is "moving ahead very strongly indeed," and Walter Gordon (L—Toronto-Davenport) said he is impressed by the "rosy optimism and questionable statistics in the speech from the throne."

"BUSINESS AS USUAL"
In other words, it was parliamentary business as usual Wednesday in the third round of the eight-day debate on the speech from the throne—an all-party affair due to end next Wednesday.

Today, the Commons was voting on the Liberal motion of non-confidence in the minority Progressive Conservative government.

Mr. Macdonald, member for Quebec Montmorency, said in his mainly French address, first in his young parliamentary career, that Canada has to halt "this drift toward socialism, toward an ideology that we oppose on the international scene and that we allow to spread on the national scene."

There were certain Crown corporations—and he singled out the CBC which previous Social Credit speakers have attacked as socialist-inclined—contributing to the infiltration of socialism in this country, he said.

Governments should avoid involvement in medical care plans because this infringed on individual freedom.

Mr. MacRae calling the throne speech the finest program that has been offered in any time, said he welcomed the proposal for a national welfare council.

"I have never agreed with the principle that voters should be lobbied through welfare payments," said the New Brunswick backbencher, first elected in 1957. "I think that we in this country now have reached the limit beyond which it is not safe or wise for us to proceed."

"I was pleased to see that in the speech from the throne there were no handouts."

"ECONOMY HEALTHY"
Mr. Hees said a clear indication of the economy's health is an increase of 8.6 per cent for the first six months in the gross national product—total of all goods and services produced.

He reviewed recent trade conferences bringing foreign buyers in touch with Canadian manufacturers, plus plans for the second conference of trade commissioners. "Many, many thousands of additional jobs would result."

Canadian businessmen had a new sense of confidence.

There were certain Crown corporations—and he singled out the CBC which previous Social Credit speakers have attacked as socialist-inclined—contributing to the infiltration of socialism in this country, he said.

Governments should avoid involvement in medical care plans because this infringed on individual freedom.

Mr. MacRae calling the throne speech the finest program that has been offered in any time, said he welcomed the proposal for a national welfare council.

"I have never agreed with the principle that voters should be lobbied through welfare payments," said the New Brunswick backbencher, first elected in 1957. "I think that we in this country now have reached the limit beyond which it is not safe or wise for us to proceed."

"I was pleased to see that in the speech from the throne there were no handouts."

"ECONOMY HEALTHY"
Mr. Hees said a clear indication of the economy's health is an increase of 8.6 per cent for the first six months in the gross national product—total of all goods and services produced.

He reviewed recent trade conferences bringing foreign buyers in touch with Canadian manufacturers, plus plans for the second conference of trade commissioners. "Many, many thousands of additional jobs would result."

Canadian businessmen had a new sense of confidence.

There were certain Crown corporations—and he singled out the CBC which previous Social Credit speakers have attacked as socialist-inclined—contributing to the infiltration of socialism in this country, he said.

Free Enterprise Attempt Failing In Red Yugoslavia

BELGRADE (AP)—Yugoslavia's experiment in free enterprise without private ownership is not going well apparently due to too much enterprise.

President Tito put it bluntly: "There is a chase after quick profits. A quick killing."

The economic momentum of the Communist country has been lost, his government has taken drastic measures to set things right again. This "austerity" drive is beginning to show signs of success.

Yugoslav Communists are determined to prove that their kind of decentralized socialism can work better than the Kremlin's tightly controlled and centralized system.

Following Tito's break with Moscow in 1948, Yugoslavia dropped rigid central controls on its economy. Shops and investments went beyond. Foreign debt approached the billion-dollar mark.

Tito started in to put a finger in the trouble.

First of all, he said, too many enterprises were duplicating production.

"If you are a carpenter," Tito said, "you are guilty of letting executive pay and squandering foreign exchange."

Enterprises usually come (back) with them," Tito said. "One cannot buy a car with per diem payments. There is corruption."
